To Hire Labor For Bridge In Gulfport

Observations...

Bay St. Louis has grown in the last ten years in spite of every obstacle in its path. The new homes built during this period are really a credit to our little city, but the public improvements have been negligible. It is only now that we are able to see some thought being given to this problem. There is much food for thought in the matter of public improvements, and it behooves our City Officials to recognize this fact, and to start a study of what is needed. One of the most important factors facing us at this time of course is the school problem. Bay High School is presently overcrowded, and the time is drawing near for the School Board to start considering the construction of another grammar school building. Another must be the problem of drainage. With the surfacing of the city streets, this problem will become worse. The dirt roads are no longer there to absorb the rainfall, and there must be some drainage provided on these streets or we will start witnessing flooded conditions. We must bear in mind that an asphalt street will not hold up without proper drainage. If the water is allowed to continuously cover it, the answer to this problem, we think, would be to put in curbs and gutters which would take care of the surface drainage; while thinking of this, many of our streets could stand sidewalks. Sidewalks would mean the removal of the weeds and underbrush which are presently taking over many of the shoulders of the streets which have been surfaced. This would help solve the cleanup problem and give the city a really clean look, which we think every one believes it needs. And last but not least, the time is drawing near for a survey to be made for a sewerage system. Bay St. Louis needs a sewerage system, and if you want proof of it, just drop by the postoffice some day and stand near the man-hole across the street and take a whiff; you will be convinced something should be done to cure this. This is not the only spot in town, there are many others. Tell us if you will, just where will all of the septic tanks, which are being put in, eventually drain. As we understand it, a survey can be secured at practically no cost to the city, and we believe the property owners would not hesitate to pay their proportionate share in an undertaking of this type, at a cost probably less than septic tanks, which would put us on a par with any city our size in the State. These are our ideas, and you should certainly have some of your own, which would benefit our city. If you have, you should make them known. Remember your city officials need your help and cooperation.

Labor, for construction of the new toll bridge to be built across the Bay of St. Louis by Merritt, Chapman and Scott, will be hired through the unions in Gulfport starting Monday, September 17, R. M. Hand, project manager, announced this week.

Key men, who are employed by the construction firm, are arriving and assembling the necessary materials to begin work on the structure which is to be completed by July 1, 1953. The firm will be located in an office at the actual site of the bridge in Henderson Point.

A dredge, with the majority of the equipment, will arrive this week, Hand continued. He added that real production on the bridge which will replace the fire and hurricane damaged wooden structure now in use, will begin in two months.

The first work will be building a casting yard for the pilings, etc., Hand stated.

A stake was driven Friday, August 24, at Henderson Point to mark the formal opening of construction on the $6,061,433 span. Nearly two miles in length, the new bridge will touch land on the two St. Louis side, about 2,000 feet north of the present location.

Parents Invited To Visit Dental Unit At Bay High

The United States Public Health Service Topical Fluoride Dental Program, under the direction of Dr. Ray Byrd, began work on Hancock County School Children Wednesday morning.

All second and seventh grade students in the county will be treated, since these are the age group in which the treatment is most effective. Other grades were also added, but in some instances a grade from a few schools had to be eliminated because of transportation difficulties and the number of children that could be treated in hourly sessions.

Dr. Byrd especially invites parents to visit the unit at Bay High School and observe the examination and methods of treatment. The unit will remain in Bay St. Louis through October 17, and during this period approximately 1200 students will receive this dental care.

Dr. C. M. Shipp, Hancock County Health Officer, urges all school principals to observe the schedule mailed to them. The group numbers are assigned for identification purposes by the dental unit, and principals should adhere to the GRADES that are due on certain hours and dates. An appointment missed is an appointment lost, as the unit will be unable to catch up on any time because of the full schedule.

Launch "Crusade For Freedom" Drive In County

The crusade for Freedom, which is the American people's challenge to world Communism, began in Hancock County last Thursday when A. H. Gregory, County Chairman, released the "pillow balloon containing leaflets identical to those dropped behind the Iron Curtain. The drive will end September 30.

Boxes were placed in the business houses in the area this week, along with membership receipts and stickers to show that you have enrolled in the Crusade for Freedom. A goal of 1200 members has been set for Hancock County; and any amount, from five cents on, will make the donor a member and give him the opportunity, as an individual citizen, to stroke a blow for freedom to add his voice to the voices of Truth piercing the Iron Curtain. It says to the Communists: "You tell your lies and we'll tell the Truth, and the Truth will win."

Every day, hour after hour, the hard-hitting transmitters of Radio Free Europe pierce the Iron Curtain, sending hope to the enslaved peoples. . . spiking Communist lies with the Truth . . . and undermining the influence of the Red rulers.

General Lucian Clay, leader of the Berlin Airlift, is directing the Crusade for Freedom. Last year's contributions of $1,317,000 gave Radio Free Europe the most powerful transmitter in the free world. As an independent, citizen-supported station, Radio Free Europe, hits hard. It sows suspicion and confusion among the Communists. It identifies quislings and informers by name, it sends messages from escapees, it spikes Red propaganda lies, and it spreads news the Soviets try hard to suppress.

This year's nationwide goal is 25 million Crusade members and $3½ million in contributions.

Every citizen of this area is asked to join the Crusade for Freedom and help America teach the people of the Soviet satellite countries the true meaning of the word, "FREEDOM."

New Resolutions Are In Order

Criticisms are easy to make. We could sit down 101 days at our typewriter and write nothing but criticisms, and it is just as easy for any individual to voice the same type opinions never, at any time, offering anything constructive.

We are indeed fortunate that God willed that we are Americans, living in the land where every person can voice his opinion. One of the neatest situations we have, is that we are allowed to voice the pros and cons on any situation that arises.

We have heard many discussions as to the numerous improvements needed in our City and County, and we naturally see many that should be made. Words of criticism alone will not bring about these improvements. Constructive suggestions as to the methods of coping with the situations would probably be the answer, as and when the people of Bay St. Louis make up their minds to forget their petty political jealousies, and work in unison for a common cause—the good of Bay St. Louis.

There will be no improvements made in our City other than probably the surfacing of a street, etc., until such time as the people of Bay St. Louis want them. Public opinion must be moulded into a single thought. Any improvement of our City, which is beneficial to the City as a whole, is beneficial to every individual.

We have a wonderful opportunity to offer a vacation-land to visitors, but it will never happen unless we make a start. The complacent attitude of many of our people, and the lack of unity among those who could afford leadership so necessary in the future development of our community has so retarded this movement, that at times it appears hopeless.

Your City and County Officials cannot do it alone. They need your help, and, as we stated before, improvements will be made as and when the people want them. Realize that public officials are guided a great deal by public opinion—it is up to you to form this opinion.

We all know that we must do something if we are to maintain a place with our sister cities on the Mississippi Gulf Coast; but we, somehow or other, just lack the courage to make the move to start the ball rolling. We have become too complacent and dependent on the other fellow; and, in the final analysis, we are perfectly willing to place the blame on our officials. The fault lies not so much with them as with us.

So, let us bear in mind that perhaps we should cast words of criticism at ourselves for the lack of initiative in public affairs, the lack of leadership afforded in civic matters, and most of all, for the nonchalant attitude which eventually precludes the successful conclusion of any of our civic undertakings.

Resolutions should be made abundantly, but they should be kept. The one most important resolution we should all make is that we will become as interested in the welfare of our community as we are in our own personal welfare.

If we follow this resolution, success will crown our efforts, and the building of a bigger and better City and County will be achieved.

Here's How To Clean Silk Shades

By MISS MADGE ALLRED

CLEANING SILK LAMP SHADES

Have you ever wished you knew how to clean your silk lamp shades when they get grimy? Why not try the following simple suggestions?

Brush the shade carefully to remove the dust. See that all trimming is firmly sewed on then dunk the shade in a big tub of warm suds. Use a light, soft bristle brush on the soiled areas. Then rinse carefully.

If you are not careful, the material will streak or the frame will rust, so dry carefully by blotting out as much of the rinse water as possible with a heavy Turkish towel.

Next, hang free on a rack or shower rod in a well ventilated spot so that it will dry quickly. An electric fan placed beneath it and directly on the lamp shade will speed up drying. Quickly done, you will get good results.

WASHING WOOLEN BLANKETS

These directions apply to washing woolen blankets, wool and cotton and wool and rayon combinations. So if you have some blankets you've been intending to wash, don't wait much longer. Follow these directions and have them all ready for use during the first cold spell, or for early morning covers during early fall.

WARNING. Woolen blankets, like other woolen things may be temperamental and not all can be washed successfully. That is why it is best to follow always the manufacturer's advice in washing.

Give special attention to washing all Woolens now that they are more valuable due to scarcity and expense of wool. Be sure your washer's action is gentle; rinse quickly, without twisting; wring water out carefully and dry properly.

PREPARATION. Sponge or brush soiled bindings with rich suds made from tepid, 100 degrees F., soft water and a mild soap.

WASHING. Wash one blanket at a time. Fill washer with soft tepid water not over 100 degrees F. Use a mild soap, previously dissolved to make a rich thick suds. A 4-inch standing suds is good.

Wash quickly, not over three minutes. Be sure the washing action is gentle. If the blanket is heavily soiled, repeat in clean suds rather than with longer washing period. Support the blanket with the hands when lifting it from the water.

WRINGING. Squeeze the water out gently with wringer rolls very loose or by hand.

RINSING. Gently rinse in water the same temperature. Rinse quickly, not over three minutes. Do not twist or douse up and down too hard. Extract water the same way. Rinse twice - three times if necessary.

DRYING. Hang blanket over double or triple lines, with the ends or bindings down. Hang in shade if hung outdoors or away from direct heat if hung inside. When partially dry reverse the blanket to bring underside up. When dry, brush lightly with clean soft whisk brush - lengthwise and always in same direction.

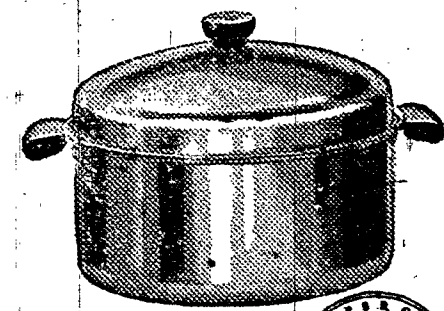

IRONING. Press binding only with cool (rayon setting) iron.

STORING. Protect from moths in a dark and dry place. When washing by hand. Use same general directions - being careful not to scrub but to squeeze suds through.

Former Resident And Her Husband Observe Their Sixtieth Anniversary

The following story is reprinted from the Port Arthur News, Port Arthur, Texas:

Mrs. Pate is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Leopold Bangard of this City; Mr. Bangard served as Street Commissioner here for a number of years. Mrs. Pate is the sister of L. D. Bangard, of Houston, Texas, and Mrs. R. I. Ferguson, the former Vicky Bangard, of Port Arthur; she was the sister of the late Murry Bangard of Bay St. Louis.

By GRACE FOOTE
News Women's Editor
"The Four Musical Bangards," a vaudeville hit when vaudeville was in its prime, today are just a pleasant memory in the minds of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Pate of 221 Fourth street.

But 25 or 30 years ago the Musical Bangards, which consisted of Pate and his three children, were in bigtime vaudeville, traveling from New York to California and on into Canada as featured musical artists on Keith, Orpheum, Marquis Loewe and Western vaudeville circuits.

"It was a wonderful life," Mrs. Pate recalled as she was making preparations for the couple's 60th wedding anniversary today.

They took the name of Bangard in honor of Mrs. Pate who was Margaret Bangard before her marriage. In the group were the elder Mr. Pate; their son, Roy J. Pate, who now resides at 530 Florida avenue, and their daughters, Mrs. J. V. Correia, of 3928 Fourth street and Mrs. C. B. Foster of Memphis, Tenn.

Mrs. Correia was the pianist and accompanist for the other three, who formed a violin trio, and also appeared in specialty numbers. She and her brother, Roy, also played the xylophone. The father's specialty was also violin, but he, too, played other instruments as they were needed in the act.

She Was Too Busy

Asked why she wasn't in the group, Mrs. Pate replied: "I had too much to do to keep the family together and take care of their wants."

The Pates were married Sept. 9, 1891, in Bay St. Louis, Miss., after a six months' courtship. Pate was traveling with a stock company and while playing in Bay St. Louis became acquainted with the girl who later became his wife.

"It must have been love at first sight," Mrs. Pate said. "For we were married six months later." Mrs. Pate had been reared in Bay St. Louis and educated at St. Joseph's convent. She was not quite 16 when they were married. She will celebrate her 76th birthday on Dec. 7. Mr. Pate was 80 August 12.

Observance To Be Quiet
Observance of their three-score wedding anniversary today is to be very quiet, on account of Mr. Pate.

Almost completely bedridden for the past nine years with rheumatism, the elder Mr. Pate is able to sit up occasionally on the side of his bed. But he still retains his sense of humor and a bright outlook on life. Only thing, he wouldn't let the photographer take his picture—as he laughingly remarked—"in bed!"

And though the elder Pates have practically given up their musical inclinations the three children still carry on. Roy Pate for seven years was director of the Woodrow Wilson junior high school band. He is now teaching private music lessons—and those who know him know that he plays practically any kind of an instrument. Mrs. Correia, the former Myrtle Pate, is a piano teacher here. Mrs. Foster, a violinist, plays with the Memphis Symphony orchestra. She is the former Verna Pate.

When vaudeville declined, the Pates came to Port Arthur to live. They had spent their vacations here off and on for a number of years and when they left the show business and decided to settle down, they decided on Port Arthur.

"We had been all over the country in our travels, but we just liked Port Arthur," Mrs. Pate said. "So we came here 15 years ago and have been here ever since."

Plan Great Show Of Beef Cattle At State Fair

Jackson - (Special) - Mississippians who attend the 1951 State Fair opening here Monday, October 8th, will see the greatest showing of beef breeding cattle ever exhibited in the Magnolia State.

That's the opinion expressed by J. M. Dean, executive secretary of the Mississippi State Fair. Mr. Dean should know, too, for he's been connected with fair work in Mississippi for more than 20 years. Mr. Dean's statement was echoed by Paul F. Newell, general superintendent of all livestock exhibits, who explained how Fairground's facilities had to be expanded to take care of all livestock exhibits that will be shown. He pointed out that four additional tents, besides the new livestock barn, will be erected on the Fairgrounds to house all the cattle exhibits. A special cattle judging ring will also be erected.

The Senior Beef Breeding Cattle show will have as superintendent E. E. Brissom. He will be assisted by C. C. Stone as assistant superintendent. Judging in this division will begin at 9:00 A. M. on Tuesday, October 9th, and the judge will be R. A. Long of Oklahoma A & M.

The Junior Beef Breeding Cattle show will have as superintendent R. M. Lancaster, assisted by Monroe McElveen and Troy V. Majure, both assistant superintendents.

War Bonds Add To Safe Savings

Individual Americans emerged from the war with almost $200 billion in liquid savings, four times what they had in 1940. That sum has grown since VJ-Day, and today one quarter of it is in Savings Bonds—over $49 billion cash value. And who can say how much of the rest has been saved only because of the advertising and publicizing of the benefits of regular saving carried on ceaselessly since 1941 in every medium of public information in support of the Savings Bonds Program?

When a business recession threatened our prosperity in 1949, this backlog of over $200 billion, which our thrifty folk knew they could fall back upon if necessary, helped keep them spending and saving as usual, so that the setback to business and employment was neither lasting nor severe.

The personal benefits already realized from these bond savings are beyond measuring. How many marriages, babies, new homes; how much furniture, equipment, have they already financed? How many emergencies have they covered? How much peace of mind and comfort provided for elderly folk? The list would be endless; each day adds thousands of cases to it. And yet the sum invested in these bonds has grown remarkably since the war's end until E Bond holdings alone were $34.5 billion, cash value, at the end of September 1950.

—Mrs. Horace Farr spent several days last week visiting her sister, Mrs. Gaspar Soldano, who underwent an operation at Mercy hospital in New Orleans. Mrs. Soldano is said to be improving.

—Mr. and Mrs. Horace Farr spent Sunday in Jackson, Mississippi.

—Miss Nannette Arceneaux left Tuesday for Ursuline college where she will enter her junior year.

138th Engineer Corps Wins Battle With Elements; Local Boy Serving In Unit

By SFC. CHARLES A. THOMAS

With 1 Corps in Korea: The Mississippi National Guard's 138th Engineer Pontoon Bridge Company recently emerged victor in a two-week-long battle behind the front lines in Korea.

The foe in the struggle was the rain-swollen Han River and the prize at stake was a 1,000-foot floating bridge which the company had built on the river east of Seoul.

At the outset of the fray, it appeared that the determined maintenance crews were no match for the turbulent waters of the Han. Despite their preparedness to cope with high water, several days of torrential rains brought about such a rapid rise of the river that the crews could not work fast enough to keep ahead of the swelling Han.

As the river began to rise, load after load of sandbags were trucked to the bridge site to elevate the approaches to the structure. But the men of the 138th started to realize the fruitlessness of their efforts as the surging Han swept over layer after layer of the sandbags.

After 11 hours of tireless efforts to keep the bridge in, the men of the pontoon bridge company heard a loud crash and looked around to see one end of their prized structure snap loose and sway downstream.

However, the engineers stubbornly refused to yield to the fury of the river. One end of the bridge still held, and they were determined to try everything to keep it from being washed away with the current. The mooring cables holding the remaining end of the bridge in place were reinforced with additional steel cable anchor lines.

But it was only 15 minutes until the churning waters of the Han began to snap the cables, and the dreary members of the 138th Engineer Pontoon Bridge Company watched with dismay as the floating bridge drifted down the river.

It was the desperation effort of four members of the unit that succeeded in reclaiming the structure. Simultaneously with the snapping of the cables, the quiet climbed into a power boat and began following the bridge down the river. After two miles of pursuit, the crew caught up with the bridge and pushed one end of it onto a sandbar. While it was lodged there, additional help arrived, and finally the bridge was securely anchored to the shore.

With the help of the 62nd Engineer Construction Battalion, the pontoon bridge unit began early the following morning to salvage the structure. After two days the bridge had been completely dismantled and transported back to its original site.

Before the operation was completed, the swollen Han river began to recede, and the men of the unit started to put the bridge back into raft sections. On each side of the river new abutments and approaches were built and made ready for the re-installation of the bridge.

Finally, the engineers received instructions to put the bridge back in. However, by the time the operation was three-fourths finished a typhoon warning was received and the incomplete span was ordered removed.

The typhoon scare passed, and work was begun once more on bridging the river. At the end of the day, only 53 feet separated the bridge and the far bank of the Han.

Before they could resume work the next morning, the 138th was ordered to remove the structure once more due to an anticipated three days of heavy rain. The forecast of heavy rains, however, proved false and at noon of the same day construction of the bridge was started again.

After eight grueling hours, the engineers' nightmare came to an end; and a group of waiting vehicles rolled across the trophy of the 138th still held after a fierce battle with the elements.

Although saving the bridge was foremost in the minds of men of the engineer unit, a secondary thought was that traffic must continue to flow across the Han. When the pontoon bridge became unusable, a ferry was put into operation to shuttle vehicles from shore to shore. Traffic did not come to a complete halt at any time during the operation.

Among the members of the 138th is Cyril J. Piazza, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Piazza of Bay St. Louis.

LOGTOWN NEWS

by JAY METZ

Logtown Consolidated School opened on Tuesday of last week with a fine attendance of over one hundred students. This year the school will have four teachers. The use of an additional teacher will result in closer supervision of each student and better coverage of all subjects studied.

The faculty includes Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Harrel, Mrs. Elliot Casanova, and Miss Gladys Patch of Gainesville. The fourth classroom is the room formerly used as the school lunchroom. Prior to opening of school, this fourth room was cleared of all old equipment and new up-to-the-minute green "black" boards were installed.

New bus schedules and a revision in the bus routes now permits school to start at eight a. m. instead of nine, as was the case the past few years. Bus drivers this year are Lem Miller of Gainesville and Cliff Dawsey of Napoleon.

The new lunchroom building was built during the summer, and is a great improvement over the old lunchroom. It is a concrete block building located on the south side of the school proper, and connected to it with a fifteen foot covered breezeway. New and better equipment for the kitchen has been installed and, with additional equipment to be obtained later, it is planned to operate the lunchroom on the cafeteria style. A large store room, soon to be installed with bins and shelves, will provide ample storage for all non-perishable foodstuffs. Mrs. Summers is again in charge of the kitchen, with Mrs. Blackman as her assistant.

Rest rooms, erected as an integral part of the new building, are not yet ready for use. Much additional work is required to get these rooms in operation.

The Logtown Parent-Teachers Association will hold an Executive meeting this week to lay the groundwork for the activities of the organization for the current school year. Officers of the P-T-A, elected last spring, are Mrs. Louis Bristow, president; Mrs. J. E. Landrum, vice-president; and Colonel J. E. Mettler, secretary-treasurer. Chairmen of the necessary committees are being named to help carry on the work of the organization.

Parents of school children and all other individuals who are interested in the welfare of the school children are asked to be prepared to help make this coming year the best in the history of this P-T-A.

The Membership chairman will soon have her committee at work to solicit members and collect dues.

WEEKLY NEWS LETTER
W. F. BOND, Commissioner State Department Public Welfare

The Good Book says that children should honor their father and their mother if they expect to be happy during their allotted time here on earth.

Although the welfare department gave money grants to 92,240 people during the month of August, there are a good many needy old men and women suffering for the necessities of life because their sons and daughters, well able to do so, do not help them. Children who are able to buy new cars, good homes, etc., should see that their parents have the ordinary comforts of life. Most children do this but there are a goodly number who do not because of indifference, negligence, thoughtfulness, selfishness, or hardness of heart. Some of the saddest stories we hear are from needy old people no longer able to do anything for themselves, who, during their working years, toiled and saved and stunted in order that their children might be clothed and fed, schooled and given every possible chance; and now these same children getting along fairly well in the world neglect their parents and leave them to the charities and mercies of others. "Honor thy father and mother that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord, thy God, giveth thee."

Mrs. Bea Georgi.

WINTER GRAZING OF DAIRY COWS SHOWS PROFIT AT NEWTON

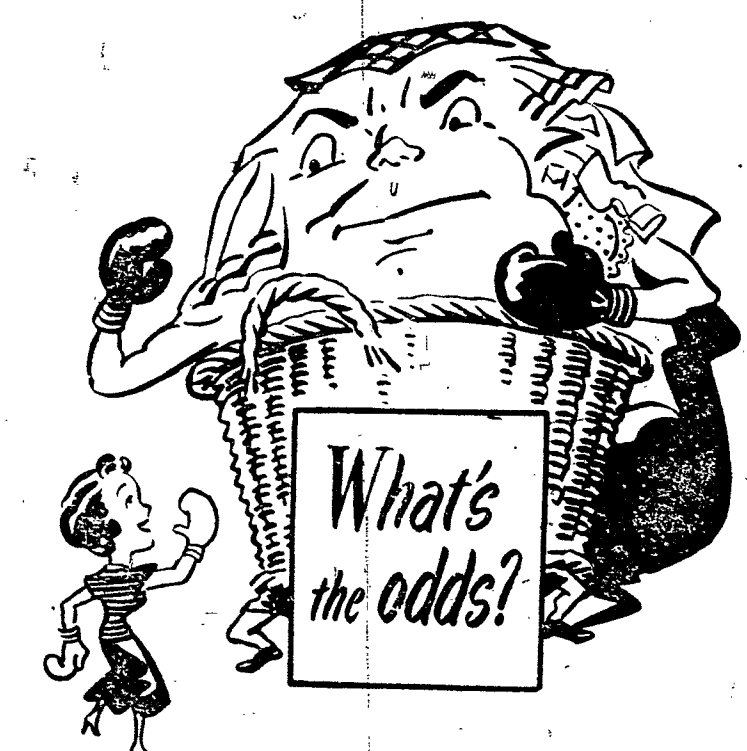

State College, Miss.—Winter grazing for dairy cows was profitable at the Coastal Plain Branch Experiment Station at Newton last winter despite the severe cold weather which injured the oats on several occasions. Each cow on winter grazing produced about 320 more returns than a similar sow on a higher concentrate feed ration and unimproved pasture.

Two 2-acre paddocks of oats were planted on September 15 with Delta Red 88 oats with a seeding rate of 110 pounds of seed per acre. The oats were fertilized with 50 pounds of nitrogen from ammonium nitrate and 65 pounds of phosphorus from triple superphosphate at the time of planting. They were top-dressed with 32 pounds of nitrogen on December 21, and another 45 pounds on February 26. On November 10, two cows were placed on an unimproved woods pasture to check with the oat grazing lots.

The cows on oat grazing were fed 1 pound of concentrate feed per 6 pounds of milk produced and all the hay they would consume. Cows on unimproved woods pasture were fed 1 pound of concentrate feed per 3 pounds of milk produced and all the hay they would consume.

Each time the oats were grazed down to 4 inches high, the cows were taken and placed on the unimproved woods pasture and the concentrate feed increased to 1 pound for each 3 pounds of milk produced. From November 10, 1950 through April 29, 1951, the two groups grazed oats a total of 114 days and were off oats, and on the same feeding program as the two groups on the unimproved woods pasture, for a total of 57 days.

The oat grazing cost amounted to $30.13 per acre, consisting of $25.13 for fertilizer, $5.00 for feed, and $6.00 per acre for land preparation. Cows on oats consumed feed valued at $52.22 in addition to the oats. Feed for cows on unimproved pastures cost $76.48. Cows on oats produced 664 more pounds of milk than those on unimproved pasture. This offset the added cost and left an advantage of $20.72 per cow in favor of oat grazing. "These results indicate that even at a cost of $30.13 per acre, and with an unfavorable winter which injured the oats on two or three occasions and retarded growth from December till March one acre of oat grazing per cow for winter grazing was profitable when milk is valued at 4 cents per pound," said Superintendent Roy Kuykendall of the Coastal Plain Station.

Purdue Seniors To Study Southern Forest Conditions

Fifteen Seniors in the Purdue University School of Forestry, under the direction of Dr. Allyn M. Herick, are coming to the University of Mississippi Forest Lands in Stone County beginning September 10 for a three weeks camp and study of Southern Forest conditions. This marks the first time that Purdue has held a senior camp of this type, and it is of note that they chose to come to South Mississippi, where they will take advantage of the camp provided by the University of Mississippi on their 22,000 acre tract of timber land which has J. Butler Brown as supervisor.

Purdue was first approached to use the camp by Monte Payne, former head of Mississippi State Forestry Department, and after negotiations lagged for several years, they were revived by John Guthrie, Forester, the L. N. Dantzer Lumber Company, who is himself a Purdue graduate.

The three weeks camp has a tight schedule to fulfill which will see the students visit such places as the DeSota National Forest, Ashe Nursery, the L. N. Dantzer Lumber Company, International Paper Company, Gaylord Container Corporation, Crosby Forest Products Industries, Hercules Powder Company, Perry County Plywood, Newton Naval Stores Company, Gulfport Creosoting Company, Martin Lumber Company, The Southern Forest Experiment Station, Masonite Corporation, as well as many other places.

Dr. Herick stated that Purdue picked South Mississippi for its Senior Camp because no where else could they find a combination of excellent camp facilities in close proximity to so many and varied thriving forest enterprises.

J. Butler Brown, Forester, University Lands, and John Guthrie of The L. N. Dantzer Lumber Company have helped outline the camp's schedule.

The Bay St. Louis Public Schools opened for regular classes September 4 with the largest enrollment in the history of the institution. The elementary department in the Central School was so badly crowded it necessitated the re-organization of the sixth, seventh and eighth grades according to departments, in order to take care of the increase in these grades.

In the first through the fifth grades it was necessary to employ additional teachers to take care of the overflow. We have recently employed Mrs. Joyce Chamness of Biloxi in the first and second grades and Mrs. Albert S. Cunningham of Gulfport for the overflow from the third and fifth grades. A number of students from the fourth grade were transferred to the fourth grade at R. W. Webb school, in order to take care of the extra enrollment in the central school.

As previously stated, the Bay St. Louis Public Schools plan to do a great deal of work this year in the way of health and physical examinations for every student in the public school system. This program was initiated Monday, September 10, with the beginning in the high school building of administering a Topical Fluoride Treatment to the teeth of students in the Bay St. Louis Public Schools along with students from other schools in the county. This work is under the direction of Dr. Ray Byrd of the U. S. Public Health Service in conjunction with the local Health Department under the direction of Dr. C. M. Shipp. On the same day, Dr. Shipp gave a physical examination to all boys who are taking part in football. At the same time, Dr. Ray O. Cause of the Department of Pediatrics of Tulane University, who is a Pediatric Consultant in South Mississippi, gave a physical examination to high school girls who will take part in competitive sports during this year.

The enrollment in the Central school this year compared to last year is as follows:

She carried white feathered carnations arranged in a cascade bouquet and entered with a white purple-throated orchid.

The bride had as her maid of honor and only attendant her cousin, Miss Vivian Telhiard, of New Orleans. Miss Telhiard wore a dark blue dress with a pink hat and pink accessories. She carried an arm bouquet of pink roses. Elton J. Telhiard, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents where the bride's party was receiving, assisted by the bride's mother, her aunt, Mrs. Raoul Telhiard, of Bay St. Louis and the maid of honor.

County Agent Notes

TAKE SPECIAL CARE OF MOWER

By JAMES TOLER

MOWER CARE

The mower, like most farm machinery these days, may have to last longer than you planned. Much metal that would have gone into new machines has "gone to war," and even some replacement parts are on the "Scarce" list.

Here are tips on getting longer service. Preventing breakdowns also saves labor, and labor is expensive and hard to find.

Some of the information applies also to combines which are being used this fall, as well as to farm machinery in general.

Secure and read the instruction manual that came with the mower.

Operate the machine properly, observing all safety precautions.

Lubrication is important, especially for full running during hot weather. Use the oil can at least twice a day on all open moving parts.

Use the grease gun at least daily on all grease gun fittings. On tractor mowers, follow the lubrication chart.

Several adjustments can easily be checked while lubricating the mower, thus preventing possible wear from becoming serious.

Check for lost motion due to such causes as worn pawls, bearings, gears, shafts, pitman straps or knife head.

It is wise to have two blades, as this prevents loss of time for sharpening, and because of possible delay due to breakage. On heavy cutting, blades may need changing twice daily for best results.

Keep the knife sharp. Be careful to maintain proper bevel in sharpening. Replace sections broken or badly worn.

Guards bolted tight can be lined with a hammer. Do not drive down the lip of the guard, as the opening between the ledger plate and the lip should be about three-eighths of an inch. Instead of closing the lip on the guard, adjust the knife with knife clips.

Proper register, or time, is important both for clean cutting and less strain on the moving machine. This means that each section should be under the center of a guard, both when the knife is the farthest "out" position and at the "in" position.

Travel should be from center to center of guard.

If register is not correct, check for warped or home made pitman, or for worn pitman straps and knife head.

WINTER GRAZING

There is nothing that will mean as much to winter grazing and getting it up to a good stand as a good seedbed and the right seedbeds. Three kinds of seedbeds used in Mississippi for winter grazing plantings are: Followed areas that have been plowed and disked; or disked thoroughly and disked for a period of time before planting.

Another type of seedbed is one that is well prepared by planting immediately after preparation with no following period. The third type is where planting is done out on the sod with little seedbed preparation.

WINTER GRAZING CROPS

Three main crops recommended for winter grazing are oats, rye grass or fescue. All of these will extend into the spring grazing period too.

WHEN TO GRAZE

Oats are recommended for late fall and early winter grazing, fescue for early winter, mid-winter and spring grazing and rye grass for late winter and spring grazing.

INSECT CONTROL

CRASSWORMS. Damage to oats and other grazing crops from grassworms fall army worms may be expected to be heavy until frost or cold weather.

Grassworms can completely strip a field of oats in a few days after they once become established. Watch closely for worm damage in fields from now until frost. The first signs of grassworm damage are whitish, discolored, skeletonized leaves. Apply controls immediately after first signs of damage appear.

Grassworms are much easier to control if poisons are applied while the worms are small. Either DDT or toxaphene applied at the rate of 10 to 15 pounds of either 20 percent toxaphene dust or 10 percent DDT dust to the acre.

Or spray with either one quart of an eight-pound-per-gallon toxaphene emulsion or one-half gallon of a two-pound-per-gallon DDT emulsion mixed in the necessary water to cover one acre.

CAUTION

Keep cattle or other livestock off treated fields for 10 days or two weeks after applying either toxaphene or DDT.

THE WEBWORM

The webworm can be controlled in pecan trees by taking a long pole with a paper sack or cloth soaked in kerosene and burn them out. If they cannot be reached by this method 1 1/2 pounds of lead arsenate to 50 gallons of water can be used as a spray with good results.

We were fortunate in having Dr. Ivan E. Miles, Agronomist Specialist from State College to discuss fertilization and maintenance

Baptist Union Seeks To Raise $35,000 For State Missions

Jackson, Miss.—The Woman's Missionary Union of the Mississippi Baptist Convention will seek to raise $35,000 for State Missions during its week of Prayer Observance Sept. 17-21.

Using as its theme "God Ever Moves in Mississippi," nearly everyone of the 870 W. M. U. organizations in the state will observe the week of prayer, according to Miss Edwina Robinson of Jackson, Executive Secretary of the W. M. U. of the State Baptist Convention.

$36,509.07 was given for State Missions in the same week last year.

The observance consists largely of special services each afternoon during the week.

Announce Migratory Waterfowl Regulations

Mississippi Duck Hunters get a 10 day longer season this year, according to a release of migratory waterfowl hunting season data just received at the office of the State Game and Fish Commission at Jackson, Mississippi. The season opens at noon November 22nd, 1951 and closes January 5th, 1952.

For the purpose of distinguishing between Louisiana and Mississippi waterfowl seasons, the center line of the main navigable channel of the Mississippi River, from northern boundary line of Louisiana to the southern boundary line of Wilkerson county in Mississippi, is used as the dividing line. All of Mississippi which lies east of this center dividing line of the river and that part of Louisiana lying east of the line will open November 22 and run through January 5, 1952. This puts all of Eagle Lake in Mississippi insofar as migratory waterfowl hunting regulations are concerned.

All that part of Mississippi lying west of the dividing line and that part of Louisiana lying west of this line will open November 2nd and run through December 16th.

At this date a reciprocal agreement between Louisiana and Mississippi has not been worked out as to how the licenses of the two respective states will be recognized for purposes of hunting waterfowl, but as soon as such agreement is worked out the public will be given the proper information.

Since the pastures August 12, at the Paul Bounds farm in Flat Top community, Dr. Miles pointed out the result of mineral deficiency in our pastures and stated that we should double our fertilization rates in most cases to maintain good pastures.

The Arkansas season coincides with the Mississippi season, November 22nd, 1951 through January 5th, 1952.

The shooting hours of ducks, geese, brant, and coot will be the same as last year, from one-half hour before sunrise to one hour before sunset. On the opening day of the season, waterfowl and coot may not be hunted before 12 o'clock noon. Shooting hours for woodcock are the same as for ducks and geese.

The daily bag limit on ducks remains the same, 4, but may include only one wood duck. The possession limit on ducks is 8, which also may include only one wood duck.

The daily bag limit on geese has been increased to 5. The possession limit is the same. However, included in such limit there may be not more than two Canada geese or subspecies, or 2 white fronted geese, or 1 Canada goose of its subspecies and 1 white-fronted goose.

Regulations, relative to the use of bait in taking birds, have been amended. Birds may not be taken within one-half mile of any place where corn or similar feed is placed or exposed "during or within two weeks prior to the open season." The purpose of the two-week provision is to overcome the continued effect of "luring" the birds to a place even after the bait has been consumed. The new standard prohibition against the taking of birds by the use of corn or similar feed still remains in the regulation. This amendment is, in part, as follows: "Migratory game birds may not be taken within one-half mile of any place where salt or any feed that may attract such birds is placed, exposed, deposited, distributed, scattered, or present at any time during or within two weeks prior to the open seasons on such birds."

She Doesn't Give a Drop!

Everybody knows about the farmer's milk cow that wouldn't give a drop—but with some effort he could take maybe a gallon a day. It's the same way with Mississippi's oil and gas. The earth doesn't just naturally give up these resources. You've got to go get them.

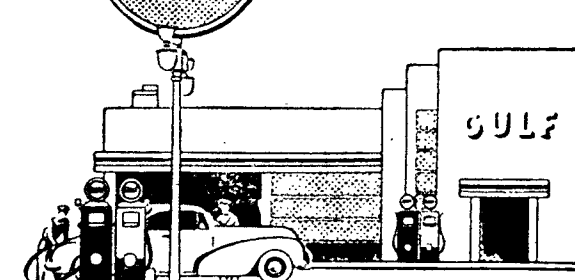

It takes people with skill and energy, and a lot of machinery and materials to sink a hole a mile straight down into Mississippi earth and bring up a barrel of oil. It takes money, too—$50,000 to $200,000 on the line, whether you come up with a producer or a dry hole. But more than anything else, it takes faith in Mississippi. You don't drill the first foot without a lot of that.

Gulf has that faith and confidence in Mississippi and its future as a great oil and gas producing state. In 34 years of operating in Mississippi Gulf has spent over $75,000,000—money that has gone into every channel of trade and into the pockets of multiplied thousands of Mississippians. And because of the risk involved in the oil business (Gulf has drilled 126 dry holes in the state), Gulf's income from production is still $17,500,000 less than its expenditures.

But the work of developing Mississippi's natural resources goes on as Gulf and its family of over 7,000 Mississippians join with every far-sighted citizen in faith and confidence in a better, more prosperous state for all.

NEWS OF OUR COLORED PEOPLE
C R A Closes Summer Activities

The president of the Community Recreation Association announced this week that the organization will terminate its activities which took place on the campus of Valena C. Jones High School this summer.

Grace Polloade, president of the C R A, in making the announcement said "we are looking forward to rendering a greater service to the community next summer by expanding our program. We feel that the program next summer will demand the employment of a supervisor to supplement the work of the volunteer workers", she added.

The volunteer workers who supervised the games were Boston Edmondson, Reginald Robinson and Gwendolen Ishum; those who served refreshments were May Williams, Carrie Wilkerson and Bernadette J. Williams.

The organization was formed this summer when a group of community minded citizens responded to the invitation of Reginald Robinson and met at Valena C. Jones school to formulate plans for organized and supervised recreation for the Negro youth of the community.

The list of members who donated a dollar or more includes: Grace Polloade, Carrie Wilkerson, Reginald Robinson, E. A. Edwards, Bedford C. Young, Boston Edmondson, Bernadette J. Benjamin, Adele Tate, Gwendolen Ishum, Joseph Daniels, Alvin Smith, George Givens, Willie Cousin, August Woods, Eugene Smith, Harold Toulmon, James Burton, Chaucer James, Embury Sanders and Jetson Tillman.

The C R A received $18.00 in small donations made by veterans and on-members of the organization.

The C R A exhausted all of its funds purchasing play equipment, it was announced.

O P S NEWS

An upward adjustment in wholesale ceiling prices of lamb and mutton has been made by the Office of Price Stabilization to the serious situation facing some wholesalers until a dollar-and-cents ceiling regulation is issued, says the Jackson District OPS Office.

The action will have no immediate effect on retail ceiling prices. Wholesalers are permitted to add 50 cents a hundredweight to sales to other wholesalers and a dollar a hundredweight on sales to all other classes of buyers, the OPS says. Wholesalers whose margins for sales to retailers exceeds the authorized $2 a hundredweight must reduce their margins to that amount while those whose margins are less than $2 may increase their markups to that level, the District Office advises.

REPAIR RATE BOOKS

Five flat rate manuals for sellers of automotive and tractor repair services to use in setting price ceilings have been approved by the Office of Price Stabilization. The manuals are approved in Supplementary Regulations 3 to Ceiling Price Regulation 34 covering services, and are effective this month.

The approved manuals are: Motor Factory Flat Rate and Shop Manual 23rd edition, Packard Flat Rate Manual, 24th series, Form L-2072, Allis-Chalmers Farm Tractor Manual for Model WD, CA and G, Implement and Tractor Shop Book, Volume II, and Children's Motor Age Flat Rate and Service Manual, 22nd edition. Garages and tractor repair stations can get details by writing to the Jackson District OPS Office, which serves the State of Mississippi.

CHRISTMAS TOYS, GAMES

Retailers, chain store and other establishments may now use an alternative period of July 1 through December 10, 1950 for preparing OPS pricing charts for toys, games and Christmas decorations. Previously, the period for preparation of pricing charts was from October 1 through December 10, 1950. OPS has now provided an alternative period because many retailers, chain stores and mail order houses customarily receive delivery of most of their toys, games and Christmas decorations much earlier than October 1. Except for the new action, they would be unable to prepare pricing charts for such merchandise.

ANTI-FREEZE LABELS
OPS has extended to October 1 the deadline on and after which packagers of "anti-freeze" must label all containers to show the type, strength and retail ceiling price of the contents.

Dollars-and-cents retail ceiling prices on gallon lots of anti-freeze are $1.50 for Type "IS," $1.40 for Type "SC," $3.75 for Type "P," and $1.95 for Type "N." The less than gallon lots ceiling prices are 40 cents per quart for Type "S," 35 cents for Type "SC," $1.00 for Type "P" and 50 cents for Type "N."

Type "S" is volatile anti-freeze containing one or more parts of synthetic ethanol, synthetic isopropanol and similar synthetic alcohol. Type "SC" is a diluted synthetic methanol product containing more than 3 percent water by volume. Type "P" is permanent anti-freeze consisting principally of ethyl compounds, and Type "N" is anti-freeze containing fermentation alcohol.

Telephone bills 5 years apart...

Mississippi subscribers to Southern Bell's rural telephone service will get a pleasant surprise by comparing their bills 5 years apart. You will find, for instance, that your June, 1951 bill is higher than your June, 1945 one—but not much!

The difference will seem even smaller when you think of the way other things have risen in cost during these same 5 years! ... Bear in mind, too, that Southern Bell has had to pay higher prices during these years for materials, labor and everything else connected with its operation.

As a result of greatly increased operating expenses not covered by the increased rate for service, Southern Bell's earnings in Mississippi have dropped to the point where we may have difficulty in securing the funds to carry on with our great rural telephone expansion program in this state.

The best evidence of our eagerness to continue to extend and improve our rural telephone system in Mississippi is the fact that we have spent 7½ million dollars since Jan. 1st, 1946 to increase our rural subscribers in Mississippi from 8335 to more than 35,000 on July 1st this year.

come from trees

Trees furnish more than wood pulp, lumber, plywood, and other wood products. Turpentine and rosin, vital to us in many ways, are products of the forest.

Yet, one match carelessly tossed in a forest can burn thousands of acres of trees. Up in smoke goes the raw material for many products we use every day. We lose, too, the money paid to workers who make our wood products.
